Marshal Narvaez to the Army—The Rights of Citizen Soldiers and Soldiers of the Line-Manum, Dec. 1, 1866.

The following circular has just been issued by Marshal Narvaez, from the Ministry of War to the various commanders of corps in the Spanish samy:—

Most Exceller Six:—The series of vicisaltudes through which the nation already had to pass for many years, has necessarily influenced its milliary position by still further augmenting the troubles the passion of parties has caused to arise in the army, to bring it to serve as an instrument for their schemes.

The profound disturbance caused by politics in the ranks of the troops not only loosens the ties of discipline, but prevents the armed force constituting a solid guarantee for the defence of the country and for order at home—an object of its institution now more important than ever, and which it is time to secure at any price.

But, happily remaining superior to the snares of a

But, happily remaining superior to the snares of a revolution which threatens to overthrow society itself, the army is now the firmest support of its institutions. Nevertheless, even when the danger has ceased to exist, it can only fulfil the mission confided to it upon condition of holding aloof from politics and their conse-

The following passages are extracted from the pro-is mation alluded to in the above circular:—

It is difficult, extramely difficult, to trace the line of demarcation that separates what is permitted to the soldier in political matters from what is not permitted. But this great and serious problem—from the very nature of things—has been solved among the majority of European mations by the institution—by the array itseli—guided by the sentiment of right, only considering as hard; that which is just.

All governments have been compelled to the effort to march in this path, carefully watching over the maintained in the different classes of troops of the military and corps spirit—the germ and support of all their virtues.

Mrs. Wells was one of the Fowler system of Watertown, famous manyears since for their beauty, and one of whom was the mother of Mr. Henry F. Durant, of Boston. In 1857 the Marquis commenced his diplomatic career, as Secretary to the emoassy to Stockholm. In 1841 he was appointed Council General in Alexandria, and in 1844 was sent to Hesse Cassel as Minister Plenipstontiary. In 1849 he was resulted, and in 1851 was despatened to Constantinople as Envoy Extraordinary. He remained in Constantinople on the line of policy adopted by him when the cession of a portion of the Hely Land was in question, might cause him to be considered an obsacle to a reconcination, he resigned. M. Delacour was uppointed flue successor. On the 23d of June, 1853, M. de Lavalette became a Sensior, after having here Grand officer of the Legion of Homonous since April 16, 1852. On the 21st day of May, 1860, he was chosen Ambassabor to Rome, and in last September, subsequent to the resignation of M. Drovyn de Lbuys, was appointed minister at interest. While discarring the duties of that important position M. de Lavalette issued the longity circular despatch which, though bearing the name of the minister, was regarded as Napoleon's own manifesto. In that important document the Emperor's riew on the fails accomplete in January were set forth, alleston was made to the Papal question and solicitude expressed for the welfare of the Bend of the Church. The writer defined the new principle governing Europe as that of freedom of alliances and a versal to the rapid growth of Ransta and the United States. He takes the place recently occupied by the Marquis De Monshelon, who left this country a few weeks age for Liebon, Portugal, which position has just been vacated by M. Berthemy. E. de position has just been vacated by M. Berthemy. E. do St. Ferriol. Secretary of the French Ligation, has been stopping at the Brevourt House for a week past, awaiting the arrival of the new French Minister to except him to Washington. His suite is composed of M. do Bassano, M. Benedetti and M. do St. Ferriot. With the latter M. Berthemy will bear for Washington this morning in an early train, unaccompanied by any others of his suffer. M. de Bassano and M. Benedetti are expected to remain at the Brevoor. House for several days yet, previous to departing for the assional capital. It may be stated in this connection, as a master of interest, that in 1803-5, when Sir Fredorick A. Bruce, the present English Minister at Washington, was the English Minister in China (secredited 1859, M. Bertdemy represented France at the same court. The former was transferred to Washington as British Minister in April, 1865.

sonatas, and Mr. Pollack sang three songs by Liszi, Schubert and Schumann. The beautiful 6 major sonata, opus thirty-one, was spiendidly played by Mr. Wolfsohn. This artist improves at each recital, and judging from yesterday's performance he deserves to be called the Halle of America.

The Seventy-first regiment concert took place at Steamway Hall last evening. Mme. Varian Hoffman sang for the first time in this hall, and fully assistanced the high reputation she has always enjoyed in the concert room. The scena and aria from Traviata, in which she first appeared, was rewarded with an encore, which she is an artist in every sense of the word, and deserved the commendations that the audience liberaity bestowed on her. Mr. J. R. Thomas sang one of his own songs, "Sweet be Thy Repose," in his own artistic style. The band was excellent, and played the orchestral selections in excellent style.

Opera Comique.

The annual performance for the benefit of the French Benevolent Society was given at this establishment last evening. As in former years, the audience was externed large, the house being filled to repletion with a most fashionable brilliant assemblage. The gatherings at the Théâtre Francais differ totally from those at other play house. The representations are given, as it were, estable to the second of the companient of the coupants of boxes to exchange calls and hold levies of some duration. It is the sociability prevailing among the habitates of the establishment that invests the entertainments with a peculiar charm and renders the representations at the Fourteenth street house most enjoyable to the refined patrons of music and the drama. Last evening Rossiul's ever popular Opéra Comique, the Barber of Seville, constituted the programme, the cast embracing MM. Wilhem, Antheime, Vert and Walter, Mile. Naddie and Mme. Daire. The work was very creditably performed. M. Wilhem, and the part of the garrilous barber with the artistic finish which characterizes the impresonations of most comediaus of the French school. M. Anthelme, who suffered from sovere hoarseness, acted more gracefully, and Mile. Naddie vocalized the florid music of the weekers with sparkflam fluency. The orchestra was profesent, but the charuses were by no means perfect. The sutertainments gave great satisfaction, and the artists were repeatedly called before the curtain.

A crowled house ushered the German illospital.

A crowled house ushered the representation given last evening for the benefit of the German hospital. Mile. Ottilis Genee, the clever soubrette, appeared in The Hirsch Family and in Ein Theater Sanded, and was heartly applanded. During the progress of the evening Mile. Genie was offered a magnificent basket of llowers, the gift of the laties on the committee of arrangements. Mr. Pollack, who had volunteered to assist, was very favorably received, and his social performance was encored.
